INTRODUCTION

This document contains a map of my research on the topographical location of the Great Central Overland Stage Road of 1864.

At the end of this PDF file are two historical maps that I used as a starting point for the research.

Attached to (embedded in) the PDF file, is the National Geographic TOPO! file I generated in the research. If you have the software to run this file, it will produce a high resolution map of the "wagon trail" location. Also embedded is a GPX formatted file that gives waypoints for the trail location and waypoints for Stations and Landmark features. There are 9998 trail waypoints that are spaced approximate 0.2 miles apart.

The total length of this stage road between Atchison, KS and Placerville, CA, is approximately 1844 statute miles.

The stage route between Atchison and Salt Lake City has been called the route of the Overland Stage Company, owned by Ben Holladay, and operated in the 1860s.

NOTE: Use the zoom feature of PDF readers to increase the resolution of the map.
